

Figure S2 Pairs of confocal images from a screening tray obtained with the Zeiss LSM510 microscope using 488 nm excitation wavelength; left – reflective confocal, right – fluorescence confocal. Fluorescence is observed only from protein crystals, but not from salts or crystallized PEGs. List of imaged crystallization conditions can be found in Table S1.