Spotlight on Arts Education Grantmaking in the San Francisco Bay Area

October 2005 / The Foundation Center–San Francisco

The Foundation Center's mission is to strengthen the nonprofit sector by advancing knowledge about U.S. philanthropy. In conjunction with our Funding for Arts Month in October of 2005, the Foundation Center–San Francisco is pleased to present this brief picture of arts education grantmaking in the Bay Area.

This Spotlight includes side by side comparisons of arts education giving by primary purpose and by target population, illustrating how funding in the Bay Area compares with funding nationally. A mini-directory of selected San Francisco Bay Area foundations making arts education grants in the Bay Area provides basic contact information along with selected grants.

WHY ARTS EDUCATION?

The arts are central to all civilizations. They provide a means for personal and political expression, for conveying ideas and emotions, and for preserving cultural knowledge from generation to generation. The importance of arts in our society makes the role of those working to pass along an understanding and appreciation of the arts and the skills needed to perpetuate and enhance their many forms especially critical.

Foundations have long supported arts education as a means for building artistic skills and cultivating a life-long appreciation of the arts. They have also recognized that the benefits of arts education go far beyond building audiences and inspiring future artists. In a period of diminished public support for arts education, foundation funding in this area takes on even greater importance.

The Foundation Center, in collaboration with Grantmakers in the Arts, has recently completed a report, Foundation Funding for Arts Education, that documents the size and scope of arts education grantmaking by U.S. foundations. We've included some information from that report here to illustrate how Bay Area giving for arts education compares to the national picture. We hope you find this report informative.

FOUNDATION CENTER GRANTS SAMPLE

Each year the Foundation Center indexes all of the grants of $10,000 and more awarded by roughly 1,000 of the nation's largest independent, corporate, community, and grantmaking operating foundations. Our most recent (2003) sample included more than 120,000 grants awarded by 1,010 U.S. foundations totaling $14.3 billion.

Overall, foundations included in the Center's annual grants sample provided more than 3,100 grants totaling $208.8 million for arts education on a national basis. Giving in the Bay Area accounted for nearly 7% of the total. In 2003, the San Francisco Bay Area—including Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, Santa Clara, San Francisco, San Mateo, Solano, and Sonoma counties—alone benefited from 240 arts education grants totaling $14.3 million. Sixty foundations provided these awards, including 35 Bay Area foundations.

COMPARISONS OF BAY AREA AND NATIONAL GIVING

Primary Purpose

Performing arts education and multidisciplinary arts education combined accounted for fully 89% of all Bay Area giving for arts education, with performing arts capturing the largest share (Figure 1). In a marked departure from the national breakdown of arts education giving, where visual arts accounted for 16% of the giving, in the Bay Area, visual arts accounted for only 4%. Within performing arts education, music education accounted for the largest share of Bay Area grant dollars, or 33% of overall arts education giving.

Target Population

Consistent with national trends, children and youth accounted for the largest share of arts education grant dollars in the Bay Area (Figure 2). College and graduate students represented a much smaller 13.4% of the total in the Bay Area, as opposed to 17.2% nationally.
