REPORT ON THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE SCIENTIFIC AND EDUCATIONAL PROJECT VI ALL-RUSSIAN CONFERENCE OF STUDENTS AND YOUNG SCIENTISTS WITH INTERNATIONAL PARTICIPATION "PSYCHOLOGY AND MEDICINE: WAYS OF SEARCH FOR THE OPTIMAL INTERACTION"
21-22 November 2019

All-russian Conference of students and young scientists with international participation "Psychology and Medicine: ways of search for the optimal interaction" is conducted according to the plan of the Ministry of Healthcare of the Russian Federation and is the title event for the Faculty of Clinical Psychology of the Ryazan State Medical University named after academician I.P. Pavlov. The traditional topic of the Conference is the mutual exchange of ideas, achievements in science, and practice between psychology and medicine. Successful interaction of specialists and scientific and practical enrichment are able to provide high quality clinical and psychological assistance.

This year, the Organizing Committee invited delegates to discuss the potential for the convergence of psychology and medicine based on the natural sciences paradigm.

Among the objectives of the Conference were announced the following:

- Mutual exchange of experience in organizing the educational process and research work at the Departments of Clinical Psychology;

- Discussion of the results of research activities of students and young scientists in various areas of Clinical Psychology;
- Preparation of future specialists for professional implementation in the framework of discussion groups, master classes, public lectures, and an olympiad in Clinical Psychology.

As the planned results of the conference were supposed the following:

- Increasing the academic mobility of students and young scientists and strengthening scientific and practical ties between universities;
- Professional self-expression of clinical psychologists;
- Determination of topics and choice of areas of inter-university scientific interaction.

The Conference participants were 310 students, young scientists, and teachers from the universities of the Ryazan, Moscow, Kursk, Tula, Yaroslavl, Krasnoyarsk, Yekaterinburg, St. Petersburg, Smolensk, Voronezh, and Chelyabinsk.

Practicing psychologists from healthcare institutions of the Ryazan, Tula, Yaroslavl, and Penza regions also showed interest in the Conference.

During the Conference, 2 discussion platforms were held, on which 19 reports were delivered, as well as 10 workshops, and 2 open lectures.

During the Conference, the final of the All-Russian Olympiad in Clinical Psychology for psychology students was held, in which 18 teams from different universities of Russia took part. The finals included team presentation, testing, brain-ring, situational tasks, and a captain's competition.

As special guests, the professor of the RAS, doctor of biological sciences I.Yu. Yurov and professor, doctor of psychological sciences M.K. Kabardov took part in the Conference.

Within the framework of the Conference, the competition of scientific publications was held, in which 20 students and young scientists from various universities of Russia took part. The works of 4 winners will be published in the network journal "Personality in a Changing World: Health, Adaptation, Development" of Ryazan State Medical University (www.humjournal.rzgmu.ru), listed on the Higher Attestation Commission of the Ministry of Education and Science.

The cultural program of the conference. Volunteers from among students of the Faculty of Clinical Psychology of Ryazan State Medical University organized excursions to non-resident participants of the Conference to the Ryazan Historical and Architectural Museum-Reserve, Ryazan Regional State Art Museum named after I.P. Pozhalostin, Memorial Museum-Estate of academician I.P. Pavlov.

The importance of the event for the development of professional education and the improvement of clinical psychologists is difficult to overestimate. Students, young scientists of the leading Faculties of Clinical Psychology in Russia had the opportunity not only to exchange views, but also draw on the experience of colleagues to enhance the scientific search, establish and strengthen professional ties.

The Conference has become the optimal scientific and educational environment for future specialists in the field of Clinical Psychology. There is confidence that the conference will give a new impetus to the development of the general cultural, general professional and professional competencies of future clinical psychologists.

Ryazan State Medical University considers the experience of holding an all-Russian scientific and practical conference of students and young scientists an effective scientific and educational project and plans to develop it in the future.
