The article describes an attempt at cataloguing stable and unstable comparisons on the basis of material from the Bulgarian National Corpus. The main points of the work done are presented: organization of the catalogue by sections; description of the comparative words for which an explication is proposed and of the properties on which the comparison is based. The authors suggest a number of applications of the catalogue for linguistic and linguocultural purposes. A particular emphasis is put on the possibilities for integrating the catalogue into a comparative study.

Keywords: linguocultural studies, stable comparisons, patterns, catalogues, Bulgarian language
