JAPAN INTERJECTS IMMIGRATION ISSUE

Proposes Geneva's Labor Session Settle Question

"Solution From Imperial Standpoint to Satisfy All Concerned"

GENEVA, May 28 (A. P.)—Japan suddenly interjected the immigration problem into the World Labor Conference today when Tamon Mayeda, permanent Japanese representative at Geneva, declared the immigration question should be settled simultaneously with world labor problems.

If this is not done, declared Mayeda, the very improvement of labor conditions may impose impossible restrictions on countries deprived of natural resources and suffering from other disabilities.

The Japanese spokesman said he did not pretend that the principle of the right to immigrate is absolute. He said he believed the right of freedom of immigration should be subject to some limitation by the countries receiving immigrants but that this limitation should be imposed rationally and impersonally.

"There should be no discrimination because of racial and national differences," declared Mayeda, "and I hope the immigration committee of the labor conference will deal with this problem from a scientific and imperial viewpoint, thus satisfying all the countries concerned."

CABINET TOTTERS ON MOORISH WAR

Socialists Withdraw Their Support of Painleve

Resent Alliance With Spain Against the Riffians

French Loss 1500—Will Now Stand on Defense

PARIS, May 28 (A. P.)—The Socialists sprang an 11th-hour surprise in the Moroccan debate in the Chamber of Deputies, throwing a bombshell into the serene situation of the renovated "sacred union," when they decided late tonight to abstain from voting, thus refusing their support to the Painleve Cabinet.

The Socialists objected to M Briand's reference to France's alliance with Spain against the Riffians, not in agreement with the promise M. Painleve made them that the Moroccan war would be absolutely defensive.

M Briand told the Chamber that France and Spain would probably soon reach an acord which would prevent supplies of arms reaching Abd-El-Krim, the Moroccan revolutionary leader.

The Socialist move places the Painleve Cabinet in the peculiar situation of relying for its majority on the opposition, and, should the Center and Right parties turn against the Cabinet, the ministry would be overthrown.

The Socialists' decision tonight was reached by a vote of 21 to 20, while many prominent members were absent.

There is a possibility the party will reconsider their move, especially when it is pointed out that their dissension virtually means their elimination from future participation in the councils of the Nation during the present Legislature.

Premier Painleve admitted heavy loss of life in the Moroccan strife. The figures he gave were: Four hundred killed, 1100 wounded and 35 missing, one-third of the casualties being French soldiers and two-thirds Senegalese.

The Premier pledged the Government's word of honor that not a single life would be given up except to the defense of French protectorate territory and not a centime would be spent or a drop of blood shed for colonial expansion or in a war of conquest.

The Premier added, "If France is at war it is in spite of herself and she is at war only for peaceful ends."

He made it plain no offensive on a large scale would be attempted against Abd el Krim. The French would be content to hold the line of the Quergha River, bar the road to Fez and make the protectorate secure against future attacks.

The Communists shouted "Down with war," after M Painleve had given the official figures of the casualties. Deputy Jean Renaud was subjected to censure.

HISS PAKULSKI AT ADAMS-ST MEETING

Dorchester People Insist Road Be Repaired

Refuse to Hear Explanation of Asst Corporation Counsel

While representing Mayor Curley at a public meeting of Dorchester citizens last night in the hall of the Mary Hennenway School, Adams and King sts, Dorchester, H. Murray Pakulski, assistant corporation counsel, was hissed and prevented from continuing his speech concerning the interference of the Legislature in the financial affairs of the city. The meeting was called to protest the bus service recently installed on Adams st.

An excited assembly of citizens of Adams and King sts and intersecting streets who use the Adams st line were present to voice their indignation at the condition of Adams st for bus riding. The busses were put in operation some two weeks ago and complaints have poured into the Dorchester Board of Trade since that time.

Among those who spoke were Charles Bauch, superintendent of Division 1 of the Boston Elevated, under whose jurisdiction the bus line runs; City Councillors James H. Purcell, James T. Moriarty and George Gilbody. Councillor Gilbody, who was instrumental in securing the permits for the bus line, declared that he was put in a false position by this meeting and stated that he did not realize that the road was in such poor condition. Councillors Purcell and Moriarty promised to do what they could to relieve the conditions.

In attempting to explain the difficulty that the city had in obtaining money from the General Court Mr Pakulski read a long statement which included a series of statistics and estimates. But the meeting received the talk with no little impatience and finally in a shout demanded that something be done about Adams st. When Mr Pakulski attempted to continue he was hissed. Questions were hurled at him. Finally, after pounding several minutes on the table, Raymond P. Delano, who was presiding, restored some semblance of order.

A resolution was passed that the Elevated officials be petitioned to restore the street cars to Adams st until the road is repaired, and a committee of 10 was appointed to visit the Mayor and the Elevated officials.

BISHOP BRENT CALLS AMERICANS INSULAR

Favors Immigration From Many Different Lands

Addresses Cambridge Women of International League

"Because comparatively few of us Americans have an international conscience, I am one of the small minority who are glad that all our immigrants are not of Nordic blood," declared Bishop Charles H. Brent of the Episcopal Diocese of Western New York last night at the Colonial Club, Cambridge, before the Cambridge Committee of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

"America will be all the finer," he continued, "when immigrants of the other races come to our shores and establish among us contact with countries of their birth, although these foreigners may be at first difficult to handle and hard for us to understand."

Bishop Brent was greeted as he made these remarks with the greatest applause of the evening. Another outburst of applause followed when, in referring to what he considered the three essential embodiments of any future plan for international cooperation, compulsory arbitration, security and disarmament, he said:

"Don't identify war with the use of force. There is use of force and abuse of force. Abuse of force is when force is used in a way we would never think of in our ordinary relations with other Nations."

Bishop Brent emphasized the necessity for study of international affairs and chided Americans for being more "insular" than the citizens of any other civilized country. He saw a need for improvement in schools, universities and newspapers in order that this "insularity" might be overcome. His general views were optimistic, however, and he said he had high hopes of the international peace conference which will be held in New York shortly in an attempt to secure unity of views among all peace advocates.

Bishop Brent was introduced by Dr Samuel A. Crothers of the First Church (Unitarian) in Cambridge. Mrs John V. Apthorp, chairman of the committee, presided.

FINDS MAN STABBED SITTING IN AUTO

Pedestrian Drives Him to Relief Hospital

Thought to Be James Francisco—Finder Is Held

A young man believed to be James Francisco, about 30 years of age, and supposed to live at 218 Cambridge st, West End, is on the dangerous list at the Haymarket Relief Hospital suffering from a stab wound in the chest.

A pedestrian drove him to the hospital about midnight and said that he found him sitting in an automobile on Sudbury st, near Scollay sq. At that time he was semi-conscious and was bleeding profusely. By the time the hospital was reached the man was entirely unconscious.

The hospital notified the police and Sergt Purcell of Station 2 was sent to investigate. The victim was unable to talk to him and the police found it difficult to get any information as to where and why the man was assaulted.

The man who the hospital authorities say took Francisco to the hospital was taken early this morning as a suspicious person in connection with the case by Sergts Michael Sullivan and Purcell.

The man, who gave his name as Frank Simone and claimed to live at 86 Bremen st, East Boston, was arrested at the Haymarket Relief Hospital, where the authorities had persuaded him to remain while they sent for the police. Sergt Purcell claims that he found a blood-stained pocket knife and handkerchief in the posession of Simone.

Simone told the police that he was walking along Sudbury st when Francisco waved to him and said, "They have got me. Help me to a station." He says that Francisco gave him the handkerchief and knife and that he took him to the Relief Hospital, where Dr Philip S. Foisey treated him and offered slight hope of his recovery.

Simone is said to be a former pugilist. The police said after investigation that they believe Francisco lives at 1 Daveney place, Roxbury, and that his wife lives at 218 Cambridge st, West End.

BRICKBOTTOM CASE ON TRIAL

La Tanzio Is First to Face a Jury

Detective Admits He Drank Alcohol He Bought

Defense Will Try to Show Conspiracy

The Government rested and the defense opened its case late yesterday afternoon in the trial of Louis LaTanzio of 42 South st, Somerville, first of the so-called Somerville "Brickbottom" defendants to go on trial in the Superior Criminal Court, East Cambridge. The case will probably go to the jury today.

LaTanzio is charged in six counts with illegal selling, on one count with keeping and exposing, and on one count with maintaining a liquor nuisance.

Asst Dist Atty Robert T. Bushnell, prosecuting for the Government, told the jury, in a brief opening, that some months ago, acting on information he had received, the district attorney appointed special agents who went into a district in Somerville and frequented it for some time. He said that it will be shown that agents went to the defendant's place at 42 South st, and bought liquor.

Detectives on Stand

Edward C. Maguire and Arthur W. G. Flater then took the stand in the order named, and testified that they had been employed as special agents by the Wolf Detective Agency to do work for the Middlesex district attorney. Both testified to purchasing liquor from the defendant.

Maguire said that he bought liquor in February, March and April, and that on some of his visits to the South-st house he saw intoxicated men in the place and saw liquor sold to these intoxicated men.

Four bottles containing liquids were introduced in evidence and Maguire identified them as purchases which he had made from the defendant. It was brought out that the contents of these bottles ranged from 23 to 41 percent alcohol, according to analysis.

Maguire, under cross-examination by attorney John H. Hurley, counsel for the defendant, admitted that he did not know the defendant's name. He said he knew him by sight.

Flater, under cross-examination, admitted that during his service as a special agent he made a purchase of a bottle of alcohol, and that after making the purchase he and another man drank this evidence.

Will Claim Conspiracy

Morris Wolf, of the Wolf Detective Agency, testified that his organization was hired by the Middlesex district attorney to conduct an investigation in the district. He said that he "looked up" his operators before hiring them and that he had known Maguire for 35 years.

Joseph J. Wolf, also of the agency, testified that the operators were given a list of places where it was thought they could purchase liquor. He said that the names and addresses were procured from records of previous convictions for violations of the liquor laws.

Attorney Hurley, in a brief opening for the defense, said that the defense would show that a conspiracy existed among the investigators in their pursuit of liquor evidence and that the investigators collaborated in their work. He said that it would be shown that the police in their raid on the district seized boxes, barrels, etc, and that these were piled up in the courtyard to create atmosphere.

The first defense witness called was Joseph J. Sarobella of Somerville. He said that he was 19, the same age as the defendant, and that he and the defendant are friends.

The trial will be resumed this morning.
