<Files\\15. Morjina Begam> - § 1 reference coded [2.16% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 2.16% Coverage

I don't like that. I think woman are not for market, they must maintain their privacy and purdah. They are better to stay at home, markets are for men. they must do trading if required for us.

<Files\\16. Nasima Begum> - § 1 reference coded [1.97% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 1.97% Coverage

No, I don't go. Many other women go and visit market but me and my sister in law don't go there. Our husbands don't like us visiting markets. men may do trading if needed.

But do you think that women must not visit market?

Yes. I think women must not visit market. Market is a place for men.

<Files\\17. Parvin> - § 1 reference coded [2.82% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 2.82% Coverage

No. I have my son and husband. I don't visit market. My son of husband will go and buy what I need, why would I go there. Girls must not visit market. Those women, who have male person at home, they must not visit marketplace.

<Files\\20. Nazma Begum> - § 1 reference coded [4.52% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 4.52% Coverage

I think women's place does not identified by working outside. Working outside is husband's duty. Women must take care of household responsibilities. Market is a place where men go, stay and do business activities there. This is no place for women. I don't prefer to engage in market activities. I heard many women go to market; however, villagers say bad comments on their character. They are defamed by the community. I think if you have men at home (brother, son, husband, father) you may take their help to conduct market activities. I don't see any reason for women to feel comfortable at marketplaces doing business deals.

<Files\\21. Salma Khatun> - § 1 reference coded [1.97% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 1.97% Coverage

No. I only visit neighbours house if needed. But I don't go to marketplaces. My husband doesn't like my presence in those places where male people stay. If I need anything, I ask him, and he brings that for me from the market.

<Files\\22. Akhtar Amolpur> - § 1 reference coded [4.80% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 4.80% Coverage

simply do not like women to deal market or work for money. This is not their responsibility. Men must earn and women must take care of household responsibilities.

I remember, once we had to go through very tough time. We had lack of money and food. My wife proposed me if she would start doing small scale business/work or not? I forbidden her to think about this anymore. I told her that "you need not to go outside of home or think about income as long as I am alive."

<Files\\24. Rozina Apa> - § 1 reference coded [4.75% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 4.75% Coverage

It depends on husband's perception. A woman may involve in income generating activities if her husband allows her to engage. She may do small-scale income activities such as poultry raring, gardening after completing her household duties. However, she can take her husbands help while marketing product. Market is not suitable place for women; therefore, she needs support from other men. My husband will never let me take part in market dealings.

<Files\\26. Lokkhi Devi> - § 1 reference coded [4.82% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 4.82% Coverage

If a woman goes in market, neighbours and community people took this negatively. Markets are considered as men's place. Women must not visit there. Respected people from the community complain a woman's husband if she visits market. They blame him that "what do you do? Why your wife came to market? You must let her stay home and take care of what she needs from market. We must not allow women in market". This is very shameful for a husband and dishonour for a family.

<Files\\9. Amena Begum> - § 1 reference coded [1.67% Coverage]

Reference 1 - 1.67% Coverage

I believe, women's self-dependency is good but that must have a limit as well. Women must not enjoy this much freedom to involve market dealings of visiting market. She can do selling or buying at home, but not to visit marketplaces. Markets are for men and they must involve in market activities.