SciencesPo

Opinion n° 2024-054

Research Ethics Committee of the Paris Institute of Political Studies (CER)

Ethics opinion concerning the methodologies implemented within the project « Spatial cleavages and citizens' perceptions of climate policies: An impediment to the success and acceptability of the low-carbon transition in Europe» led by Théodore TALLENT

Having reviewed the project « Spatial cleavages and citizens' perceptions of climate policies: An impediment to the success and acceptability of the low-carbon transition in Europe » led by Théodore Tallent as well as the related research methodologies, the Sciences Po Research Ethics Committee has assessed the project's compliance with ethics standards and procedures. They unanimously approve it.

Done in Paris

10th of October 2024

Signature: Christine MUSSELIN, President of the Sciences Po Research Ethics Committee (CER), on behalf of all the CER members