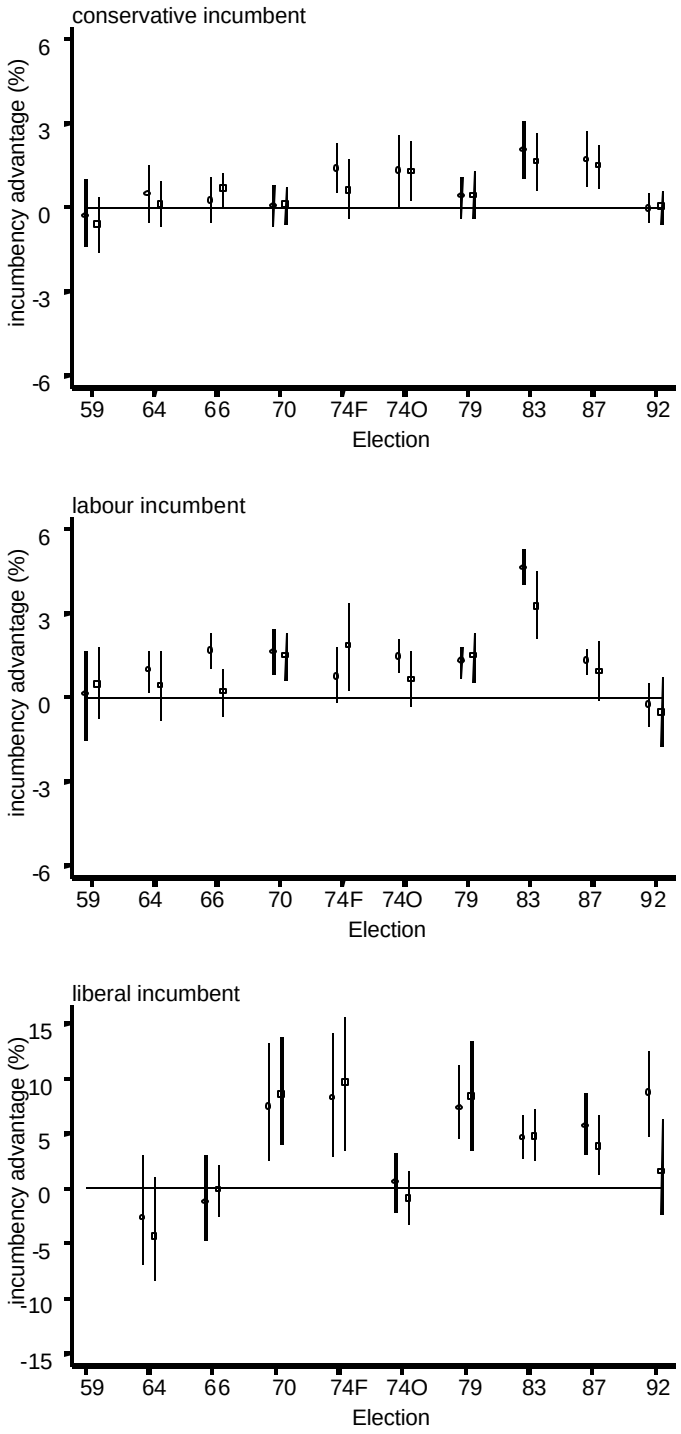
Figure: Estimated Incumbency Advantage without Empirical Priors


Once we suppress the prior, the two models produce very similar results. For each election, the circle marks the incumbency advantage as estimated by SUR, and the square represents the advantage according to KK. As before, vertical bars cover the 95% confidence intervals.