Purpose of the Dataset

Two villages or neighborhoods, sitting side-by-side, may differ dramatically in the extent to which people participate in decision-making, contribute to public goods, and enjoy adequate education, health care, or other services. Similarly, men and women, young or old, or people of different ethnic groups may experience better or worse governance and development outcomes. Such inequalities in governance and service provision raise important questions. This dataset provides information clustered at the local level on individuals' perceptions and experiences of/with non-state and state actors and institutions across sectors such as health, education, security, and administrative services. By assessing governance and service delivery at the local level, the LGPI can be used to provide a better understanding of local governance and insights to help government officials, political parties, civil society actors, the public, and the international development community design better programs and policies.

Scope of Data

The survey contains 8060 observations obtained from March 24 to April 17, 2016 in 15 districts in Malawi: Balaka Blantyre, Chikwawa ,Chitipa, Dedza, Kasungu, Lilongwe, Mangochi, Mulanje Mzimba, Nkhata Bay,Nsanje, Ntcheu, Rumphi, Zomba.

Overview of Sampling

The survey was fielded in 15 of Malawi's 28 districts, spanning all three administrative regions. Within each region, traditional authorities (TA) or, in urban areas, local council wards were randomly selected for the study. A total of 18 traditional authorities and four urban wards, from three regional strata, were selected according to the principle of probability proportional to size.

Response Rate

The response rate of the survey was 94.5%

Other Notes:

In the context of help-seeking questions, the gender variable has been recoded to Men only, Women only, and Men and Women. This adjustment accounts for the possibility that individuals may seek assistance from multiple sources.

Consent

Good day. My name is {0}. I am from the Institute of Public Opinion and Research, which is working with the University of Bergen in Norway and Gothenburg University in Sweden. I do not represent the government or any political party. We are studying the views of citizens in Malawi about how the country is governed and the quality of life in your area. We would like to discuss these issues with you. Your answers will be confidential. They will be put together with 7000 other people we are talking to, to get an overall picture. It will be impossible to pick you out from what you say, so please feel free to tell us what you think. This interview will take about 1 hour. There is no penalty for refusing to participate. Do you wish to proceed?
