Participant Information Sheet-

Determining the Components, Contexts and Network Structures For Major Projects

Project managers are an important component and play a pivotal role in the functioning, execution and success of projects as well as megaprojects. Project managers engage in an exchange of numerous relationships with various members and stakeholders throughout a project. Despite this, an understanding of these relationships remains largely limited. Further investigation will yield a more in-depth level of understanding and allow project managers to develop greater control.

This questionnaire aims to assist project managers in developing this understanding of stakeholder networks and the environments which promote and allows the incubation of successful projects. This is to be accomplished through the cross-comparison of projects.

This questionnaire has been designed to be succinct and will take approximately 15-30 minutes of your time. Further to this, all responses will remain anonymous and confidential throughout the entire research process and because of this, your honest answers are most appreciated.

This project has been approved by the University of Sydney's Human Ethics Research Committee (Project No.: 2019/794). The responses you provide have the potential to contribute to and provide positive impact on the quality of management within projects, and in particular megaprojects. The completion and return of this survey communicates your consent to participate in this research study and survey. Despite not being obligated to participate, declining to participate will in not affect you whatsoever.

We thank you in advance for your contribution and will provide a report outlining findings when cross-compared with other projects. It is aimed that these findings will be able to contribute to the planning, execution as well as management of future projects.

We greatly appreciate your help.

Kind Regards,

Stephen
