Sampling and Weighting Methodology for German Survey of Environmental Attitudes

For the survey, YouGov interviewed 3,106 German citizens between August 9 and August 28, 2012, who were then matched down to a sample of 2,000 to produce the final dataset. The respondents were matched on gender, age, and education. YouGov then weighted the matched set of survey respondents to known marginals for the German general population using the September-October 2011 Eurobarometer.

Sampling Frame and Target Sample

YouGov constructed a national sampling frame from the September-October 2011 Eurobarometer survey. The German frame was constructed by combining the East German and West German samples and using the united Germany weight to adjust the samples to their respective proportions. A target sample of 2,000 German residents was selected with stratification by age, gender, and region with simple random sampling within strata. YouGov selected a respondent from its panel that was a close match across gender, education, and age. A proximity matching method was employed in which a distance function measured how close a member of the panel was to a member of the target sample for each variable used in the match. Survey respondents were selected based on the proximity of the overall distance as measured by the weighted sum of the individual distance functions on each attribute.

Weighting

Because matching is approximate, rather than exact, and response rates vary by group, the sample of completed interviews normally shows small amounts of imbalance that can be corrected by weighting. The sample was raked to marginals for gender, education, and age and weights were applied. Those marginals are shown below. The weights range from 0.85 to 1.19, with a mean of one and a standard deviation of 0.11.

Age:	18-34:	23.10%
	35-54:	36.60%
	55+:	40.30%

Gender:	Male:	49.00%
	Female:	51.00%

Education:	16 years or fewer:	43.40%
	17-19 years:	33.00%
	20 years or more:	23.60%
