Consent Form for Access to Survey Information

Purpose of Investigation and Procedure:

The purpose of this research is to learn about the outcomes and effects that Intergroup Dialogue, a new form of pedagogy that has been incorporated in some of Colgate's courses, has on its students. I hope to reveal the effects, skills learned and benefits for students who have participated in this new form of pedagogy. By granting consent you are agreeing to participate in a 20-minute survey. Your participation in this survey is completely voluntary. In the survey, you will be asked questions about your experiences in the IGD course.

After the completion of this project the survey data, as well as the final report will be archived through Harvard University's Dataverse Project. Colgate's SOAN Department maintains it's own dataverse through Harvard's server in order to distribute the information to researchers interested in this project. The purpose of the archival of this data is for future researchers to use this data to perform further research on the results of this study. The Chair of the SOAN Department controls who has access to this data. Possible people who may have access to this data are students who are enrolled in SOAN courses for course-related research and researchers outside of Colgate may be granted access to this data depending up their intentions and purpose. Access may be granted by the Chair of the SOAN Department to individuals only after a detailed written request is submitted to the chair and is accepted.

Benefits/Risks:

There are no risks associated with this study. However, a question may be uncomfortable to answer if it requires you to remember an experience from a course that was emotional.

Confidentiality: This survey is confidential. All information will be used for the purpose of this study. You will be given a number for organization purposes. This number will be written on your pre-test and post-test not your name.

Your Rights:

Your participation in this research is completely voluntary. You may choose not to answer a question if you wish if it makes you uncomfortable, without a penalty. You may also withdraw from the study at anytime.

Compensation:

There is no formal compensation for participating in this interview and your participation is completely voluntary.
