I think republicans are more hypocritical than democrats as they like to say things usually to satisfy people in the moment or to get votes.

I think that Republicans in general are more hypocritical than Democrats because a lot of them will make a statement, then try to backtrack if it does not go over well with the public.

i agree also the covid bill that passed that was the rescue plan most republicans rejected it and did not vote for it, then later on when those benefits came true they praised it and tried to take credit for it

I agree with you. They also align their beliefs and behavior with the far right, then later deny some of those actions.
