republicans
user1

they're pro life but will support assault rifles and deny welfare support
user1

It makes no sense
user1

Personally I do believe that Republican party members are more hypocritical than Democrats for a variety of reasons.
user2

why?
user1

Good points about gun control resistance and pro-life issues.
user2

When we live in a less patriarchal society that actually supports unwed mothers and/or low income families then maybe we can discuss pro-life.
user2

i agree
user1

I also personally know several Republican families who have availed themselves of abortion clinics if one of their daughters became pregnant at a young age.
user2

I agree as well
user1

Most Republicans I know are all talk, no action and want a personality like Trump to take care of all society's so-called problems.
user2

My own sister is a wealthy white Republican and the rhetoric she spouts is unbelievable, mostly about taxes. Too bad she forgets about when our own parents were broke and we received government aid.
user2

Tell me that the high gasoline prices aren't a ploy for Republicans to blame our Democrat President for an inflationary economy.
user2

If Trump were president they would not dare blame him for high gasoline prices.
user1

Precisely. Oil and gas companies tend to be Republican party supporters.
user2

If Trump was President we'd probably be sending troops to the Ukraine to aid his buddy Putin.
user2

We live in a different world now and most Republicans are dinosaurs, refusing to get with the times.
user2