Hello
user1

Hi!
user2

Who do you think is more hypocritical?
user1

I think that Democrats can be overtly hyper critical because of thier wanting to be correct all the time, so they put a lot of thought into each action or speech wondering if it would be a benefit for all
user2

How about you?
user2

I think that Republicans can be a little more thoughtless of the public good so dont face that hyper criticism.
user2

I think both sides can be hypocritical at times, depending on the issue.
user1

For sure, and also depending who they are critical of. Themselves or others.
user2

I think that Republicans can be more critical of others than themselves.
user2

Democrats seem more inwardly critical.
user2

Right now Iâ€™m very concerned about the potential Roe v. Wade decision and how Republicans donâ€™t want any abortions at all but also donâ€™t want to help women take care of their children after theyâ€™ve had them. I think that is very hypocritical.
user1

And the fact they don't really want or care to fund social service programs like EBT, WIC, Medicaid- etc.
user2

If you donâ€™t want women to have abortions, them give poor families who canâ€™t care for their children a way to care for them.
user1

Right, they are completely against social programs like that.
user1

Exactly. Plus I heard that in a certain state that the DFHS has been stuggling and some regions closed.
user2

And they donâ€™t want to educate young people on how to prevent pregnancies in the first place.
user1

Itâ€™s going to be very difficult if it gets overturned.
user1

A bigger issue definetly. So we have all these young kids who dont know how thier bodies work because some republicans thought the word penis and vagina might upset god and the goverment
user2

I have a feeling so many people will turn to very unsafe methods to prevent births
user2

I agree with you. They will have no alternative.
user1

And its not like even with SAFE HAVENS so many babies are found in dumpsters.
user2

will be found i MEAN
user2