Republicans. I feel like some things they are opposed to on a public level but in turn in their private lives they agree with these same situations
user1

I feel as though they are very strategic in a way
user1

What things do you feel they oppose on a public level?
user2

For example, the Covid vaccine. For the public, it looks good for them. In reality, they are just as scared & in disbelief of it actually working. What are your thoughts?
user1

Who do you this is more hypocritical?
user1

Republicans and democratic both play their role against us though.
user1

I Feel as if they are looking out for Corporate America rather than the citizens.
user2

It feels like the real agenda is an attempt to divide the nation.
user2

Yes! I feel the same way. Whatever makes them look good in their position, theyâ€™re going to say and do it and we constantly fall for it.
user1

Which is hindering us from actually seeing a change
user1

Re election is a polititions real concern
user2

Politician
user2

They say people only do what you allow. We have to start fighting with our rights, thatâ€™s why they are there
