Hi
user1

Hello fellow democrat! How are you?
user2

I'm good how are you?
user1

Well, thanks. I suppose we should get on topic of hypocritical politicians?
user2

I honestly believe both parties are hypocritical, but overall I believe Republicans are more.
user1

Absolutely. I think there are some outliers in the democratic party that are working for the people, especially as of late.
user2

I do agree with you on that.
user1

I think Republicans always say that they care for all Americans and want to do what's best for everyone but there actions actually are doing the opposite
user1

All in all though, republicans are two-faced when it comes to any real issues that affect regular Americans. On all issues, from gun control, abortions, minimum-wage, etc.
user2

They are doing whats best in their donor's interests which in turn keeps them in power sadly.
user2

Citizens united. Take money out of politics. See how much hypocrisy they can get away with then.
user2

I agree with you it happens with all issues. An example that just happened recently, is the shooting at the elementary school. Republicans say that this is a tragedy and want to prevent this from ever happening again. But they fail to do anything when it comes to gun control.
user1

Thoughts and prayers don't fix anything. Beto O'Rourke was right to confront Abbot! Abbot shouted that this was not the time for politics.Well when is?
user2

Democrats at least take action and try to enact laws to limit and restrict people from accessing easily but Republicans argue that guns are'nt the issue.
user1

Just more examples of Republicans trying to get sympathy votes all while having the NRA in their back pockets.
user2

Wasn't the NRA supposed to be going bankrupt or something last year?
user2

The NRA will never fail as long as they have support from conservatives and Republicans.
user1

Another instance of the hypocrisy is the boot licking that republicans and their ilk that say Trump wasn't fit for office all while saying the election was rigged. I think they know they're a dying breed.
user2

I agree they are just saying and doing whatever they can to stay alive.
user1

They're all for overturning Roe v. Wade, but can't pass legislation to restrict gun laws, to save countless children.
user2

Thoughts and prayers.
user2

thoughts and prayers
user1

Republicans priorities are all messed up.
user1