Good afternoon
user1

Hi! It's obvious to me that Republicans are totally hypocritical. As if their thoughts and prayers are sincere!
user2

I agree. The Republicans are beyond words at times. The thoughts that goes through their minds.
user1

In PA the GOP Senate primary still hasn't been decided because the vote count is too close to call. So one of the main planks of the GOP candidates has been to stop mail in voting because it's "illegal and unconstitutional" Well, not McCormick, one of the GOP candidates is demanding that undated mail in ballots be counted because OZ has a slight lead over him. Talk about hypocracy! it's Staggering!
user2

now McCormick
user2

Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell insisted that his high principles would not allow him to bring Merrick Garlandâ€™s nomination for the United States Supreme Court to a floor vote, because a presidential election was only eight months away in 2016.
user1

Yeah, right, but trump could appoint justices at any time
user2

He is the JOKE of the USA.
user1

I almost feel like some GOP politicians are so blatantly abandoning any semblance of fiarness or adherance to the Constitution that we can't even use the word hypocracy with them. They don't even bother to pretend or mouth the appropriate platitudes.
user2

Pardon my bad typing
user2