Republicans for sure. They constantly accuse others of their own transgressions.
user1

I think it can be even because they want to take a moral high ground on certain issues
user2

but when it comes down to policy
user2

I just find it funny that they accuse Biden for not being tough on Russia and Trump was literally Putin's puppet
user1

do they enact fair policies and go through with what they say
user2

why do you say putin's puppet? like what evidence?
user2

He took his side over the US's own intelligence
user1

he didn't sanction Russia for putting bounties out on US soldiers
user1

he calls him smart and a genius all the time
user1

but maybe he thought china was more of a threat then russia
user2

thats irrelevant to any of those things though
user1

but it relates but that is why he was going "soft" on russia
user2

he could think China was more of a threat and still not side with Putin on a global stage over his own intel agencies.
user1