Republicans
user1

republicans
user2

Biden was literally stating facts yesterday and they were still booing him
user2

I think because they preach morals as a party, but then do things that say the opposite. Like abortion for example. They want to abolish it, but then refuse to vote towards programs that help poor people user1

agreed
user2

It also seems like Republicans are more entrenched in their party, and stick with them no matter what user1