Hi!
user1

HI! I think that republicans are generally more hypocritical.
user2

Looking at this question, I'm also inclined to say that Republicans are more hypocritical.
user1

But I'm trying to make sure that my own political leanings aren't influencing me
user1

Their opinions are often based on things they simply hear instead of critical thinking. For example, many are religious. Do you agree?
user2

I too try to not be biased.
user2

Yes, I do agree that many are Christian but do not necessarily follow Christian teachings, such as caring for your neighbors
user1

I also see that in other realms, such as with gun control. They can say that they want to promote responsible gun ownership, but don't always support the measures that I think would promote responsible gun ownership
user1

That is a great example. Another big hypocritical stance they take is that they are against abortion claiming that they are pro life, but then they don't want to have governmental assistance programs. That doesn't seem very pro life to me.
user2

Definetly, they want to claim they want gun safety but they don't actually put in effort to make laws that make guns safe.
user2