I feel Republicans are more hypocritical than Democrats are.
user1

Republicans are opportunists, and like to jump on any topic they can to attack Democrats, to make themselves more appealing to those who vote for them
user1

I think that Republicans are often more hypocritical due to the conflicting views that their values hold against how they vote. I completely agree with you.
user2

Exactly, they seem less concerned about a moral structure, and more concerned about what will win them votes
user1

And now, they like to run with anything they can spin into a hot button topic
user1

Which is why they are always flopping around on issues. Though a consistent view from them, abortion rights tend to be the topic I find is most ridiculous when it comes to their being hypocritical.
user2

Yes, they've playing identity politics as they know their base is in favor of anything that's anti liberal at this point
user1