This is an interesting topic. I think political leaders in both parties are both frequently hypocritical, but I suppose some examples from Republicans are more salient to me, particularly pertaining to bodily autonomy, abortion, healthcare, and access to adoption/social services. If one wants to promote not getting abortions, I would think they would simultaneously support increasing social support and economic incentives that would afford more opportunities to raise said children.
user1

oh hi i didnt think i had a partner yet
user2

No worries! To be honest, I wasn't sure either.
user1

I think both parties are hypocrites.
user2

Yeah, although the abortion issue was salient for me, the Democrats are just as hypocritical, just on different topics, like when it comes to corruption and money and politics.
user1

democrats act like they are for the common people but then they stall and make excuses for getting any real change done
user2

Absolutely!
user1

look how many times in the past few years the government has gone into a shutdown just because both parties could not agree on a budget
user2