hello
user1

hello
user2

I mean I don't really know I guess there hypocrites on both side
user2

Well, just right off the bat, I think both parties can be very hypocritical, but I do tend to believe that Republicans are more so.
user1

Sure
user2

I find many of their self serving positions tend to contradict the evangelical roots many of them claim to have.
user1

Yeah def, a lot of them portray themselves as hardcore catholics but there actual stances are contradictory
user2

So much of what is in the bible says to drop your possessions and take care of the poor. This is overwhelmingly not the case with the positions they take.
user1

I guess I shouldn't lump them all in as evangelical, but it seems to me that the vast majority of them claim to be.
user1

There is like the bible belt, and the south usually claim to be atleat
user2

In other issues, they complain about needless spending and wasting money, yet look at the defense budget. It's a massive portion of our GDP
user1

It is actually crazy how much we spend to fuel the industrial military complex
user2

its like 6 trillion spent on the middle east
user2

in the last couple decades
user2