Both to some extent but Republicans by far are the most hypocritical.
user1

Hi, I believe Republicans are far more hypocritical. I believe they want so much control over basic human rights and they're always mentioning freedom and the American way.
user2

Yet seem to do all they can to restrict these rights and freedoms. They have so many issues they want dealt with and no Republican seems to have a valid solution they're willing to apply.
user2

Yes I agree. They are afraid of change that will make more people equal. They are afraid of anything that doesn't look like them
user1

They spend most of their time blocking anything good that can come out of Democratic initiatives.
user1

That is absolutely right. They would be very content to reverse Roe Vs. Wade so women aren't able to easily obtain an abortion is needed, if they can get one at all.
user2

Yes, Roe v Wade is a prime example of turning back the clocks.
user1

I don't know why everyone isn't scared.
user1

But yet will complain about welfare and the cost of government benefits when that baby is born poor and to a mother incapable of affording
user2

I'm too busy being angry about it to be scared lol
user2

I've always said, they only care about you until you are born.
user1

I think anger just makes me scared.
user1

I hate the feeling of losing what we have gained.
user1

It's true and don't be born poor, a minority, gay or disabled. That's when you get swept under the rug by Republicans
user2

So true..
user1

It's a shame more people can't see what we're living in and how much worse it will become.
user2

I am an older woman so I have seen a lot of change for the good and now to see it swept away is horrible.
user1

Not that we don't have a long, long way to go!!!
user1

I know I don't have time to discuss gun reform but if what happened in Texas this week and the Republican party reaction to it doesn't tell you all you need to know about them
