Hello, i think republicans are more hypocritical
user1

I believe that Republicans, by nature, are more hypocritical
user2

Hi, I'm glad we see eye to eye on that
user2

why do you believe that?
user1

This is a perfect example of why I believe that. As a democrat, I think we are more open minded, we don't take everything as fact and are willing to change our opinion when presented with new facts
user2

for my self, i think theyâ€™re hypocritical because they pretend to care about people and their rights while also taking away rights
user1

i also believe we are more open minded
user1

I have noticed that Republicans tend to dig their feet on the ground on many issues and do not change their views even after presented with new information. This sets them up to be wrong on many issues and continue to believe they are right. They tend to be seen as hypocritical becuase of this
user2

that is a good point. i see this in the news, in social media too
user1

When talking about specific issues like the 2nd amendment and abortion rights, I do believe that they tend to say they care about lives (for example) but show complete disregard for these same lives when it is not convenient for them.
user2

exactly. it makes me wonder why they are so stubborn that they wonâ€™t recognize what they are doing to people.
user1

what are some other things you think about republicans?
user1

Agreed. It's hypocritical to say that Republicans care about the lives of children when they do little to protect those same lives in many aspects of government such as foster care, basic needs, childcare
user2

they do little to protect people and a lot to protect their views which should have changed a lot by now
user1