I'd say that Republicans can be very hypocritical in terms of being "pro-life." They claim that they are pro-life but then don't care about the countless number of POC who have lost their lives due to police brutality

I see myself more as a Democratic morally and a Republican fiscally and have actually voted both parties in the past. That said, generally I feel that Republicans are more hypocritical than Democrats. They claim to be patriots and yet they don't give a hoot about the needs of average people.

Very true, if they genuinely cared about the lives of other people, they'd show it in their actions

I agree with your comment, H. The whole pro-life stance does not respect the fact that it is mostly poor women who are hurt by their restrictive policies.

Well said, Sam.
