I think Republicans are more hypocritical than Democrats. I do believe that Democrats are also sometimes hypocritical, but Republicans are hypocrites much more frequently.

I would say that Republicans are more hypocritical. I believe that they will talk about valuing life such as their reasoning for being anti aboriton being viewing it as murder. However, they see the school shootings happening and do not think that the murder seen there warrants changes to our gun laws as they stand.

I agree with you

I think about gun control and the most recent shooting in Uvalde. They are saying to prevent things like that in the future, teachers should be armed. This is just ludicrous to me. Teachers do not get paid enough to carry weapons, nor should they have to be worried about that in a school setting.

They seem to care more about unborn fetuses and abortion than they do about living, breathing children.
user1

RJ I agree with you completely.

I see hypocrisy in most things Republicans say and do. I just feel that they care more about money and power than the American people. We are the reason that they have so much power and we need to take it back. We can't have another Uvalde, ever again.

Yes, I couldn't;t agree more. The change needed is not to introduce guns to the teachers but to ban guns such as the one used in that shooting. He bought the gun at the age of 18 legally and there is a legitimate chance that atrocity does not happen if guns were illegal, especially any assault rifles

so many beautiful young children lost their life and unborn children are the priority of them, it really does not make sense.
user2

If there is even a 5% chance that banning guns or at the bare minimum stricter background checks could lead to less shootings, then that needs to happen. Republicans will post on their stories for the childrens lives and talk about how horrible it is but refuse the obvious solution of making acquiring a gun more difficult
user2

They are also talking about bullet proof classroom doors, just too many other solutions because they don't want to go against the lobbyists. It really is sad times we are living in. We have given our power to the wrong people.
user1

An 18 year old like that should never have been given a gun if background checks worked
user2

I think we should start with stricter gun laws. You shouldn't be able to turn 18 and go buy an AR-15 the next day.
user1

Wow, we are definitely on the same page
user1

Yeah there is a lot in it for the money. it really is a shame
