I think Republicans are the most hypocritical

I believe that the republicans are more hypocritical they weaponize religion on a daily basis but commit acts that clearly go against the Bible.

They also claim to care about children and say they're pro-life but they don't do anything to help children in need

Republicans always want to say that they put family first and are against abortion but they would never be willing to have the state financially support a woman so that they could have this baby.

And they always want to cut programs that help single moms and don't do anything to help teachers

Republicans want to hold the doctors and the women criminally responsible for having an abortion but what about holding the man criminally responsible for getting a woman pregnant it seems very hypocritical to me when a man isnâ€™t held up to the same standards.

They're ok with trying to regulate a womens body and telling her what to do but would never allow women to control a man's body
