This is a tough question as I believe they are both hypocritical
user1

I believe republicans are more hypocritical as they don't stand with their belief
user2

I also believe democrats as you but lean more towards the republicans
user2

I agree with that
user1

My reasoning with this is based on the latest school shooting which was really sad
user2

The Republicans are "pro-life" but won't support any programs that help families with day care etc...
user1

Once the baby is born they lose all interest
user1

Right, they refuse to budge an inch on gun rights
user1

That is true, I really hate how the citizens are the ones that tend to lose as they are just more concern on politicing everything
user2

Yes, it's just a big show
user1

hopefully they one day will come into their senses as they should be working for us not the other way around
user2

I hope so, It's sad.
user1

yeah I stopped watching the news for a while because I got tired of seeing how our future is in their hands
user2

I think allowing lobbyists and political donors has corrupted our system.
user1

they have I do agree
user2

seems they don't realize everything they do affects both party bases not only the opposite one
user2

I don't think they even care anymore
user1

Keep the donors happy
user1

yeah corruption really gets the worst in everyone, it makes us look uncivilized
user2

It sure does. I wish I knew the answer
user1

It seems even good people who get elected quickly become part of the corruption
user1

When AOC was first elected, she tweeted that her first day orientation was sponsored by lobbyist, ick!
user1