I think Republicans are more hypocritical than Democrats.
user1

I believe that both parties have members who are hypocritical, but I agree that Republicans seem to take it to new heights.
user2

The reason I feel that way is because it is so much more blatant with Republicans and they never acknowledge it.
user2

They are always saying one thing and then doing the opposite or suddenly supporting something that previously said would never work. Yes, both have been hypocritical in the past, but it's more often Republicans.
user1

Ted Cruz is a great example of a super hypocrite.
user2

Exactly, Republicans never acknowledge it and usually actively denied it or say we all misunderstood what they previously stated.
user1

Yeah they always try to spin it and gaslight everyone. I can't believe that people fall for it again and again.
user2

I agree, Ted Cruz is one of them.
user1

He will say and do anything to further his political agenda, it doesn't matter the topic or cause.
user1

Also, Republican call themselves "patriots" and hide behind this behavior.
user2

I find it infuriating.
user2

And of course The Donald is the king of hypocrites.
user2

I don't understand how some people can take what those type of people say so literally and don't use their own judgment. Trump is the ring leader to the hypocrites.
user1

When Trump would say that we needed to bring jobs back to America and meanwhile his neckties were being mass produced in China is a great example.
user2

I believe that most Republicans only care about protecting their money and are very greedy.
user2

Yes, too many times his actions were totally different than what he was saying, and would just saying things like "well I didn't know". He was the president, he should know and probably knew.
user1

Agreed but he is rock dumb. He is so sexist and racist.
user2

Agree and while he did a few good things, overall he made this country worse not great.
user1

Yes, added so much division and fueled the fire for Jan 6
user2

Jan 6th was unbelievable.
user1

Yeah and when he said that COVID would miracraculously disappear by Easter of 2020
user2

Trump told them to march down there and do something, then acted surprised when they did.
user1

Yeah that was definitely an act
user2