Hi. My name is Joy. Who am I speaking to?
user1

Republicans are definitely more hypocritical. Look at the events of the past few days. 10 people killed in a grocery store by a gunman and 18 elementary school children gunned down at school. But the Republicans will offer thoughts and prayers and do nothing else. They claim to be pro-life by their abortion stance and have the blood of actual human beings on their hands.
user2

My name is Jimbo.
user2

I agree. I want someone to get off their duff and work on gun control.
user1

Their political campaigns are filled with money from the NRA. They are bought and sold by the NRA and gun manufacturers.
user2

Why run for the House or Senate if you are not dedicated to actually do something to help people. They are in it for themselves. Power, power, power.
user2

I just don't get it. Other countries have done it. The second amendment is about a well regulated militia not a well armed society.
user1

The elected Republican office holders and everyone who votes for them have blood on their hands. Do I need to add the insurrection of Jan. 6th? They are about hate, anger and fear.
user2

They are frantic over their declining demographics and will do anything to stave off their eventual coming political demise.
user2

They have always wanted control of our society. If they lose control what will they have? I know what we would have...a better world.
user1

Amen
user2