I think Republicans are more hypocritical. Especially with pro life issues. Often they are pro birth and do not care after the child is born.

I personally feel all politicians are hypocritical in some manner but do lean towards Republicans. They threw multiple curve balls with covid, morn mass shootings but promote gun ownership, ETC.

I agree with that. The democrats can often he hypocritical as well. The thing that I notice with hypocrisy is a politician campaigning with one belief then changing it after being in office.

Sorry I was replying to your first message that was a perfect example. I agree completely, I guess Republicans stand by things that impact us a bit harder so it's easier to catch them.

I completely understand that. I was responding to yours as well. You gave some great examples. I think that is a good point about things that Republicans do impacting us more than what democrats do so we notice it more. It's similar to how if we are fans of a sports team we might notice what our rivals do more than our team. Like you I do see hypocrisy with every politician it is just more about how hypocritical they are.
