Republicans are more hypocritical. It is due to their changing views on freedom and big government. I want to add that they are hell bent on creating wedge issues to divide the country.

Republicans are more hypocritical than Democrats. They harp on and on about certain freedoms but remain so close-minded about many issues after they say that the issues should be decided on a state-by-state basis.

It makes me sick really. All of a sudden budget is an issue as well but it sure wasn't when Trump was in office! And now the Democrats are stuck cleaning up the proverbial mess and being blamed for it as well.
user2

Right! What is upsetting is they're big on local control, not the worst thing in many cases, but if they disagree with it, then they're all for new laws.
user1

Exactly. Here in Georgia we have lovely uneducated MJG and Brian Kemp. Ugh
user2

Thank Trump for the artful deals that created our economic mess.
user1

I mean Marjorie Taylor Greene lol
user2

I'm just so sick of them refusing to participate in any decisions/votes to make the country better as well. And no more thoughts and prayers please haha
user2

Sad to say but New Hampshire is getting crazier with minority Republican rule. They call themselves Free Staters. Crazy people hell bent on destroying anything they don't like.
user1

Oh God. I'm just used to it here in Georgia by now. So embarrassing.
user2

Thoughts and prayers triggers me every time. How about compromising and creating effective solutions?
user1

NH is the only state in New England like this. It's a shame.
user1

Me too! Tots and pears!
user2

Haha
user1

Good to talk to someone like-minded!
