Hello, Think about this question seriously . Both parties are hypocritical. They both promise another but they don't actually deliver on their promises usually.
user1

Democrats often run on populism, but still take corporate bribes and often serve corporate interests over interests more tailored toward the general population.
user2

Republicans claim to be the "Christian" party, but apparently never read the story about that Jesus guy.
user2