As a democrat I'd obviously say republicans are more hypocritical but I also don't think very highly of them
user1

I honestly will say Republicans. Mostly because of their stance on being "Pro-life". They want to force you to birth a child but basically say to heck with them once they are born. They dont want to support mothers. So not very prolife mostly just probirth
user2

I don't favor their views at all... so I agree when not thinking very highly of them.
user2

Yeah it's an insane stance to take, I want to have control over what you do with your body, the decisions you make and force you to create life but after that I will belittle any need you have for assistance
user1

I've talked to my husband about this, we literally don't understand people who side with republicans anymore, especially after Trump, I understand none of their ideology
user1

Plus, you don't see them trying to regulate things with mens bodys. Mostly just females. Then they want to say adoption is the way and I'm no way against adoption... the the process is horrible and costly. Plus, our foster program is a mess..
user2

Completely agree...Trump has made most of the republican society into a hateful cult.
user2

100% agree, plus if it were genuinely about being pro-life and having less accidental pregnancies men would be the ones with birth control
user1

Its like they can't think pass Trump... however they talk down about Biden... for stumbling over words... when Trump could barely form a sentence that made sense.
user2

yeah, I don't get that at all.
user1

Biden has political background, understands policy and how it all works
user1

Trump told people to ingest poisons and was friends with Putin
user1

Exactly, Trump was there to gain the fame. Plus, people seem to forget what a big backer he was to the Clintons in the 90s....I think he literally ran hoping he would get the nomination and then Hilary would be a shoe in... however when he saw he could actually win he ran with it.
user2

Yeah which was a shock to every thinking American, I was horrified
user1