Good afternoon. My name is YERPPP. I believe that Democrats are more hypocritical than Republicans, for sure, because they promise to make the lives of everyday people better through economic improvement and socialized programs, but don't say that it will result in higher taxes and costs of goods. Republicans, I feel, aren't ashamed of their wealth and don't flip-flop on conservative stances on hot-button issues so much. How do you feel?

Let me provide some examples of this. Joe Biden, during his State of the Union Address in 2022, talked about adding jobs and providing financial security for hard-working Americans. As we see, however, he's failed to keep the price of gasoline and everyday, necessary goods under control, and people are struggling all over. I mean, the inflation rate spiked to 8.5%-12% recently, while it's normally only about 1.5%-2%. This doesn't feel like economic prosperity to me.

Also, while I liked President Barack Obama quite a lot, he promised to provide a sustainable, effective, and affordable health care initiative called ObamaCare, but it has since been repealed by his successor, Republican Donald Trump, because it wasn't working. Although I'm a Democrat, I hate to say it, but Democrats make huge promises that they know that can't keep, but just provide lip service to get votes.

Is anyone else here in the chat with me?

Without a doubt Republicans are much more hypocritical. It is illustrated in almost everything they say and do. For example, if they are supposed to be the party of less government oversight, why are they FORCING their beliefs of criminalizing abortion? And why are they changing voter's rights policies to make it harder for Democrats to vote?

Some of us take longer to formulate and write out our thoughts.

Ex-President Donald Trump, while aggressive, shameless, and braggadocious, was a complete straight-shooter and delivered on his promises, especially regarding job creation and foreign policy, and didn't flip-flop on his views with frequency.

I wasn't aware that the Republican Party believes in less government oversight, but I believe you. It is hypocritical to criminalize abortion, in that case, but that's their conservative viewpoint in action.

Republicans are not only more hypocritical but have become a shameless, power hungry party.

How are Republicans making it harder for Democrats to vote? I'm not too politically-savvy.
