I think that republicans are the most hypocritical. They care about babies in the form that they don't want abortion but don't want to support large government to then watch those children grow up and have good healthy lives.

I believe Republicans are more hypocritical since they say they believe in human life and want to ban abortion, but in reality they have no problem when large amounts of people are gunned down and do not enact safer gun laws.

I also agree with that. When the right to bear arms was written in the consitution they couldn't have imagined how the world has changed in three hundred years time.

They also do not want to work with Democrats on common sense things like gun legistlation, or they say things like people need to vote if they want change, but they do a lot of gerrymandering so that their votes are skewed.
user2

They do want to make sure that it is harder for people who they don't agree with. The voices to be heard but not in they disent.

Republicans always try to make it seem that they want women to be equals in the world - workplace, day-to-day living, but they make everything as hard as possible for women, like getting basic reproductive services, equal pay (they claim women are already being treated as equals in the workplace, not true), but they favor laws which make it difficult for women to be equal with men

Or Republicans are anti-gay and then it turns out the more restrictive they are for gay rights, then eventually that person is revealed to be gay.
user2

I believe that if they were equal things like vascetomies and male birth control would be widely available.

They seem to want to not be told what to do with their bodies when it came to Covid but when it comes to growing another person they can police another persons body.
user1

Absolutely, they want to control the poor, women, people who are not white, or anyone who doesn't agree with them
