I think both democrats and republicans can be hypocritical about certain things. I live in a very republican city so I guess I notice their hypocrisy more
user1

Democrats are, they support policies not because they believe in them but because they know it will look good on them and to give the republicans a hard time
user2

I think republicans try to act like they are so morally superior to democrats but they donâ€™t support welfare policies that actually help the people that need it they just want tax cuts for the already rich people
user1