Democrats are because they use the outward flaws of republicans to get into office but never actually make the positive changes
user1

Republicans by far. Mitch McConnel and his handling of Supreme court justices is a perfect example. He dosent allow a vote on a nominee because its around a year away from a presidential election. But yet less than a month away from a presidential he pushes a new supreme court justice through because they are republican and consevative. e i think there is a fine line between lying about the reason which is what mitch did and actual hypocrisy

user1

That line was crossed. He is an absoulte hypocrire in the way he handled his leadership time in the Senate.
