I definitely believe that Republicans are more hypocritical than Democrats. Just off the top of my head I can point to the examples of Lindsey Graham and Mitch McConnell. They blocked President Obama's Supreme Court Nomination when it was early in an election year, but pushed through Trump's Nominee in the last month before the 2020 election.

Both groups are hypocritical, there's no getting away from that, but I'd have to say republicans really do take the cake when it comes to being hypocritical. If I have to hear one more conservative Republican going on about how abortion should be banned, yet at the exact same time they think social services should be decreased or eliminated I'm going to scream
