honestly, i think they're both quite hypocritical and self serving.
user1

forced to pick, i'd say the republicans are worse
user1

Republicans are very hypocritical. The will often say one thing, but their voting records say the opposite.
user2

they will claim to be for freedom and small government, but only when those things benefit them
user1

Memorial day for example: Repubs give a lot lip service about helping veterans. But if you look at the voting records, they vote againt it every time.
user2

that's true
user1

same thing with the whole abortion stuff going on
user1

when they say small government, the mean for the wealthy and corporations. For the average citizen, they are more than happy to pass multitudes of oppressive laws.
user2

all about freedom, until it's about a woman's freedom to choose
user1

Only freedom on their terms.
user2

I am in Texas, so you can imagine the stupidity that I see every day.
user2

haha
user1

it's everywhere, honestly
user1

i only have to drive 10 minutes outside of city limits to run into weird billboards
user1

but, it's hard because i see the democrats doing the same things, just not as foaming at the mouth as the republicans
user1

During our town's memorial day parade, the mayor, was driving his truck in the parade, with the words " F " Joe Biden. And they worry that kids may see bad words in school books.
user2

wow, that's wild.
user1

The difference is that Democrats are doing things that most people in the country want. The republicans block every thing.
user2

i just don't see them fighting back very hard.
user1

Exactly. Dems are too soft. They need to be as mean and nasty as republicans. Use their tactics against them.
user2

FOr example: When I talk about Ted Cruz I always say" The immoral anti American Canadian born cuban, Rafael Cruz...
user2

LOL
user1