I think they are both hypocritical, but republicans are way more blatantly and openly hypocritical
user1

I would say republicans are. One reason is because they are "pro life," but when an actual child is born they do not care for that child. That child could end up in foster care and they could care less.
user2

I agree with you though. Anyone from any political party can be hypocritcal.
user2

very true and I was actually just thinking about that this morning when I saw a charity ad for starving children
user1

They do not care about children only controlling peoples' bodies
user1

Yes it is sad. If they were really "pro life" they would try to get to the root of the problem. Poverty, too much wealth at the top, universal healthcare, etc.
user2

Exactly
user1