Haha, that's a good question.
user1

yes it is
user2

Hi anyway. Any initial thoughts on this?
user1

if I have to take a stance I will say republicans because they seem to more often pick and choose which rights they like to stand up and defend
user2

I'd agree. It's often hard to tell what position they really take on a topic sometimes
user1

I'm thinking Abortion/Covid vaccine
user2

in one instance its a "my body" situation and the other is not in their view
user2

Agreed on covid especially. There's a lot of Republicans with different opinions, but the hypocrisy often stands out, especially prominent Republicans like the one in congress
user1

I guess you could say that applies to Democrats, but I think they bend a little more
user2

I hate to say, but it seems easier to give Democrats a chance, again especially with COVID, because it seems like they follow the science
user1

But Republicans it seems like they will just pick the stance that benefits them the most at the time
user1

If I was going to argue that Democrats were more hypocritical I'd use the releasing of the oil reserves just recently
user2

I didn't really understand how you can push toward a greener future, but everytime gas starts to get more expensive, you release reserves to drive the price back down
user2

Shouldn't higher prices push people to use less gas?
user2

I hope I don't lose my bonus for arguing both sides lol
user2