I would say both parties democrat and republicans are equally hypocritical

I think that both parties have hypocrisy but that Republicans tend to be more outwardly hypocritical.
user2

That's true, Republicans don't even try to hide it.

I was trying to think of some example between the two.

I think that Republicans like to portray themselves as more American, when in fact they don't like many of the groups that make up America. I think they like to claim they are more Christian and righteous, while not following the word of the Bible. I think Democrats do the same thing in saying they care about certain issues but not actually acting on them

I think that Republicans believe in "my body, my choice" when it comes to being anti-vaccine but are hypocritical when it comes to abortion rights.
