Missing Data

In order to construct the dataset on democratic electoral systems around the world since 1946, numerous sources were consulted (all listed in the codebook). I have gone to great lengths to ensure that the information in the dataset is as complete as possible. Nonetheless, I am still missing information on certain variables for particular countries and elections. Below is a list of the missing data that I am still looking for. If you have any knowledge of this missing data, please email it to me at mrg217@nyu.edu with a citation for the source so that I can verify its authenticity. I will then add you to the growing list of people that have provided data.
