Lol. Look at it this way: If you go to hell for playing Persona 3, myself [along with pretty much every adult gamer] will be right along side you for playing GTA I through IV, Resident Evil, Jericho, Condemned I & II, soon-to-be-released Dead Space, etc, etc, etc. Feel better now?

Yeeeeah, you'll have friends in hell!

LMAO! This is probably the funniest thing I've read all day!

On a more serious note, you do realize that you're talking about a video game right?

personally i was very hyped for the game but it wasn't what i was expecting at all. i thought it be a bit more open ended and you'd get to explore enviornment so far i've just been going from one cutscene with brantching dialogue to another with one small quick battle and htne back to the brantching dialogue cutscenes

i think that you are a little over sensittive about that. as a devout catholic i say to you: its a game, games shouldnt influence you in hardly anyway.
only christian fanatics that everyone hates, including myself, (they are annoying i will admit.) would boycott the game and not touch it, i hope your not like that. if you want it, buy it and enjoy. God bless dude :D

that however does not mean he's not there. and if you believe in the bible there ARE indeed second chances as long as you truly are sorry for the mistakes you've made in the past and repent for them, with the exclusion of a couple, none of which i ever intend on commiting in my lifetime. i know many many religious people who are much worse then me. and by youre words they'll get into heaven ahead of me because they believe in god. BS. you have no idea what your talking about and need to read your bible a little more closely.

i may not be religious but i know enough about it to know what im talking about.lack of proof is not the same as lack of faith, get your facts straight and maybe try comming up with your own beliefs rather then following something someone else tells you is right. also some religions will even baptize you after you die so you can make the descision after death. BTW if god exists so does the devil. the 2 go hand in hand. if im not mistaken its you religious people who said the greatest thing the devil ever accomplished was making people believe he doesn't exist. you need to get your sh## straight

Belief in God is not quite enough. Its fantastic yes, but see my reference from the above post in Romans 10:9-13. Are Christians perfect? No, but they have acknowledged in their heart Jesus, His sacrifice for your sins, and His Lordship as King of Kings. This is what gets people to Heaven, not works. You do get many more than second chances, and a repentent heart is always a good thing. You just dont want to take the second chance for granted and wait too late (see 1 John 1:6-10). You never know when your time is up, so why procrastinate? Hell and the lake of fire judgement await those that dont accept Christ. These are horrors beyond your comprehension. Dont wait on it!! As for the Faith vs proof part, check this out: John 20:29
Just to clarify, when I said no second chances I meant after death. You get many chances while your living.

lol i just read that thing on Why the devil doesn't exist. seems to me he just doesn't want to believe in something so terrible. he repeatedly says that man is the evil. i thaught it was the devil who influenced the evil and it was mans choice wether or not to do it. also to judgmenteden there are in FACT religions that will baptize or seal you after death. dont try to tell me there isn't. ive done my research, also i didn't insult you once. also to archangel its hard to believe in a god with all the rape, murder, and hate crimes being commited in this world...by religious folk who go and preach jesus the next day. if you think i haven't tried then you're wrong, my gf believe and has gotten me to go to church with her. plus if there is a god then this is how god made me right? therefore if he knew i would be a non believer during life why would he punish me after death?too many loopholes among other things i think everything bad and evil in the world is man made. God made things good and didnt make garbage. He gave people free will and they rape people and like it! God CAN get rid of all bad things but then he would be controlling other people by taking away free will. if people refuse then they get theirs in hell its as simple as that. evil came from man. thats all.

Thats pretty much the only reason I won't play it. I draw the line at stuff like that when choosing my games. The Bible says to stay away from even the appearance of evil. This game has evil written all over it man. Stay away from it bro.

Wow, that's probably the dumbest thing I've heard on this entire board. The word of God is written into our hearts when we are born. Atheists and people who believe in Evolution needso much more faith to believe that the earth was just magically formed and that there was no creator. They try to shut out the truth. Me, I avoid games like this(as well as Movies, music, media, etc.), everything has wither a good or bad spirit behind it(Yes even video games). The world will make you believe this ok to do, when in fact it is not. Archangel pointed it out great.

We have tangible proof of how the Earth was formed, it was nothing magical. Planets, and how they are formed, is something proven by science. Our moon didn't just break loose from the Earth already a round chunk of rock, you know. It was tons and tons of debris that came together, in the same way the elements of the Earth did, which is the same way other non gas giant planets came to be. Proof exists for how science explains the formation of the Earth, the only people insisting it magically appeared and who shut out the truth are.... well... you guys. For something to be the truth, it needs proof, you have none.

I hear that if you put Persona 3 in your PS2 and click the X button 666 times a gate to Hell will spawn in your living room and Satan himself will rise up and attempt to coerce you into believing that the Fox news network is in fact fair and balanced. oh and since you are soooo misguided in your ideas on evolution and the origins of the earth I will have to inform you, evolution and the origin of the earth have strong support in science and did not happen over night it took millions of years here is a link to info on it if you decide to actualy find out how things happened and the time frame involved http://www.moorlandschool.co.uk/earth/earthorigin.htm (http://www.moorlandschool.co.uk/earth/earthorigin.htm)

the reason science is so strong is because its based around disproving things, the way it works is you formulate a hypothosis then test it to see if it can stand up to scruteny, then you submit the results to be tried by your peers and if they still cant disprove it then your hypothosis gets stronger till it has withstood being disproved enough to be accepted as fact IE is known as a theory, thats why evolution is still around, because its withstood the test of time and no other scientific theory has been as challanged as it has, evolution is fact, there is no argument Evolution is not technically a fact. It is a very well supported hypothesis, that has been tested time and time again and has not been disproven. If you do not believe in evolution, I suggest that you spend a couple of months researching some type of bacteria. I would challenge you to observe bacterial adaptation and then deny that evolution is taking place on a larger scale. Since bacteria grow in suck large numbers and multiply on a logarithmic scale, it is easy to visualize selection for mutants with desirable traits such as antibiotic resistance. Or you could just choose to believe that God magically changed the bacteria so they could survive.

First let me say everybody has their own creed and everyone should respect each others right to believe what they want.

I am christian. I don't go to church because I believe they are all full of nut jobs (maybe I just went to the wrong churches). But that is just me.

On to your question I don't believe you will go to hell for playing a game. Diablo 2 was one of the best games ever made and you are trying to kill the devil so I don't see what your problem is with it.

The pentagram has a long history and a lot of meanings. The christian church once used it to represent the five wounds of Jesus. It all depends on who's using the symbol.

One more thing, The Lord of the Rings was written by a christian, so I seriously doubt it's evil.

The pentagram has nothing to do with the Star of David, which is a six pointed star. The pentagram is a five pointed star.

I don't think it's a sin to play a game.

I'm a catholic and for me it wasn't evil or anything like that. But i guess it depends on what you believe in. What you find offensive, and such and such. If you do play it then try to keep an open mind and see beyond the presentation and go for the story its telling and its characters.

Hmm, this topic hasnt been closed yet? Im surprised...I dont know why some of the users here think its so bad that some people just like to follow a certain teaching or belief. I think part of the problem with the world today is people have a flippant attitude toward everything. It would be good for people to be less arrogant.

> It is truly absurd to say you read the Bible, and say it has nothing to say about the devil (satan, lucifer) or hell...that these are just tools made by man. Guess what? The devil's biggest weapon is convincing you and the public that he does not exist or that hell does not exist. If he can do that, then you will obviously not have much incentive to turn to God, Jesus, or the need to acknowledge Jesus' death on the cross. I mean if the devil doesnt exist, does that not leave a HUGE doubt as to whether God exists. You cannot believe in one's existence without a belief in the other. As for the Persona 3, there are definite things you can do to open yourself up to demonic attack...and yes, some games and movies are on the list. Does that mean you will go to hell? Does that mean you've lost your salvation? Absolutely NOT. Your salvation is in the firm belief that Christ died on the cross for your sins...that He is the Risen Lord and Saviour and acknowledging and accepting Him as such. This cannot be won or lost through actions or deeds. It is a matter of the heart. (see Romans 10 in particular verses 9-13). As for whether this Persona 3 is demonic? I dont know much about it. If your worried, ask God about it, He will answer. If it doesnt feel right, then maybe that is already telling you something. It is definitely important to watch and be aware of what you let into your life. You wont lose your salvation over it, but it can open you up to unnecessary attacks from the enemy (satan and his not-so-merry band of losers lol).

This is the absolute last place I would expect to find a religious argument, lol. I do enough of it with my atheist friend I go here for a break :P And I thought it was just Ireland (where I live) that was so absolutely ignorant to various denominations of christianinty but it looks like there are alot of people here too. Dude, I'm a Christian and its entirely up to you, if you're uncomfortable with the game, don't get it. I haven't played it so I can't offer much help but if you think its going to bother you, don't play it, simple as that :).
