It's a shame to know that people need to base their decisions upon some old man made rules rather than independently thinking for themselves on making the right decisions for thier lives. Religion is old news, people need to get with the program and learn that thier freedom relies within themselves, not in some magical authoritive measure. Get with the times. If you think that playing a game is going to get you to do bad things, then maybe you shouldn't play games. Go see a physcologist or a counceler.

LOL some weird View here then thats for sure..

End of the day play it if you feel comfortale palying it I mean as a Christian you gotta face every day life which is full of various crap!! Its only a game and plus.. there is no possible way that Humans could accurately portray the paranormal so its really just fantasy when it comes to games.

Just remember where your priorities should be and If you feel dodge after playing it for a wee while then sell it! simple WRONG! Pentagrams are always demonic upside or downside. Dont even give your opinion if you dont even know what your talking about. And if any Christians use it, rest assured they are corrupt. By the way, my Christian friend, I dont play Shin Megami Tensei games at all because of the reasons you listed. But thats my personal choice. You can play it if you want and not suffer any consequences. Just be cautius.

ORLY? (http://altreligion.about.com/library/weekly/aa100102a.htm)

"There are many connections between the pentagram and Christianity. Before the cross, it was a preferred emblem to adorn the jewelry and amulets of early Christians (followed by an 'x' or a phoenix). The pentagram was associated with the five wounds of Christ, and because it could be drawn in one continuous movement of the pen, the Alpha and the Omega as one."

As people stated before, if you could lay out anything in any way you want, and if you think you go to hell because of a video game, well...

Yeah really. A lot of ignorant people mistake Catholicism and Kabbalah as Christian religions when they are not. Kabbalah is a Pagan Jewish religion and is no way related to Christianity...BenderUnit22.

Why is it whenever someone asks a religious question people who dont believe in it have to put in their opinion which isnt worth even two cents? No one asked you, so keep it to yourself. People like you are like a pack of pirhana's, as soon as the blood (religion) hits the water, theres a frenzy. Either answer his question, or shut up.

i've been reading a normal bible, you obviously have no understanding of how the bible was written, and all mentions of a "devil" have been put out of context by various religions as a tool of fear to control the masses.

Whenever someone has to try and disprove the Bible, they always use the excuse of "mistranslation". Sorry, im not buying it, and frankly im getting sick and tired of that excuse. Its getting lame. Are you going to take this mans word for it? I think I will trust in something worth trusting, and its definitely not going to be an E-Book.

It is truly absurd to say you read the Bible, and say it has nothing to say about the devil (satan, lucifer) or hell...that these are just tools made by man. Guess what? The devil's biggest weapon is convincing you and the public that he does not exist or that hell does not exist. If he can do that, then you will obviously not have much incentive to turn to God, Jesus, or the need to acknowledge Jesus' death on the cross. I mean if the devil doesnt exist, does that not leave a HUGE doubt as to whether God exists. You cannot believe in one's existence without a belief in the other. As for the Persona 3, there are definite things you can do to open yourself up to demonic attack...and yes, some games and movies are on the list. Does that mean you will go to hell? Does that mean you've lost your salvation? Absolutely NOT. Your salvation is in the firm belief you something. It is definitely important to watch and be aware of what you let into your life. You wont lose your salvation over it, but it can open you up to unnecessary attacks from the enemy (satan and his not-so-merry band of losers lol).

excuse me??? i said if god is all forgiving then it shouldn't matter either way. i choose not to believe because god has not shown me he exists. that however does not mean he's not there. and if you believe in the bible there ARE indeed second chances as long as you truly are sorry for the mistakes you've made in the past and repent for them, with the exclusion of a couple, none of which i ever intend on commiting in my lifetime. i know many many religious people who are much worse then me. and by youre words they'll get into heaven ahead of me because they believe in god. BS. you have no idea what your talking about and need to read your bible a little more closely.

i may not be religious but i know enough about it to know what im talking about.lack of proof is not the same as lack of faith, get your facts straight and maybe try comming up with your own beliefs rather then following something someone else tells you is right. also some religions will even baptize you after you die so you can make the descision after death. BTW if god exists so does the devil. the 2 go hand in hand. if im not mistaken its you religious people who said the greatest thing the devil ever accomplished was making people believe he doesn't exist. you need to get your sh## straight the devil doesn't exist thoguh, at least the bible doesn't say he does, the guy who wrote this book has been studying the subject for 17 years, and the hundreds of different versions of the bible, many of the words have been changed from the original Jewish text they were written in. the roman catholic church has encourage the concept of the devil becuase it has the power to control people. if you read the book all of this would be explained.

The devil is purhaps one of the greatest conspiracies ever concieved, and this book completely explains it, its not the first book to do so, but its the most concise and well put together to date. at least read the free intro.

Dude, its just a game.

i'm Jewish and i play Persona 3! the devil doesn't exist dude, and neither does hell, they're just tools of fear thought up ancient philosophers.

You are one of my group dude. Anyone with a bit of knowledge would know that religions were used as tools of fear to control others.

now why would you say that???do you have any FACTUAL information to disprove them???no??i didn't think so. it is not a FACT that god exists, neither is it fact that he doesn't . however seeing as how it looks like you're religious. is it not a bad thing to judge and/or ridicule others because of their spiritual beliefs???and even if they dont believe in god now but they live a good life why cant they go to heaven???if god is indeed as willing to forgive sin as you people preach he is. then they have nothing to worry about if they end up wrong and neither do i. good day sir

I hate talking about things religious in nature in a gaming forum. But if you think God lets you in heaven because you didnt have enough "proof" (More like lack of faith) than thats your fault. If you believe the bible there are no second chances, to be quite honest.

excuse me??? i said if god is all forgiving then it shouldn't matter either way. i choose not to believe because god has not shown me he exists. that however does not mean he's not there. and if you believe in the bible there ARE indeed second chances as long as you truly are sorry for the mistakes you've made in the past and repent for them, with the exclusion of a couple, none of which i ever intend on commiting in my lifetime. i know many many religious people who are much worse then me. and by youre words they'll get into heaven ahead of me because they believe in god. BS. you have no idea what your talking about and need to read your bible a little more closely.

i may not be religious but i know enough about it to know what im talking about.lack of proof is not the same as lack of faith, get your facts straight and maybe try comming up with your own beliefs rather then following something someone else tells you is right. also some religions will even baptize you after you die so you can make the descision after death. BTW if god exists so does the devil. the 2 go hand in hand. if im not mistaken its you religious people who said the greatest thing the devil ever accomplished was making people believe he doesn't exist. you need to get your sh## straight way, what I said is in no way a broad way for people to get into Heaven. Did I say you can live however you want and still get there? No. And No, I dont believe in your closing statement, I believe the devil has done worse than that. There is no lack of proof. A lack of faith is what people have if they want proof. Quit acting like you know what your talking about, you know nothing as far as I can tell.

Again, I really dont want to get into this. So I stop here.

Belief in God is not quite enough. Its fantastic yes, but see my reference from the above post in Romans 10:9-13. Are Christians perfect? No, but they have acknowledged in their heart Jesus, His sacrifice for your sins, and His Lordship as King of Kings. This is what gets people to Heaven, not works. You do get many more than second chances, and a repentent heart is always a good thing. You just dont want to take the second chance for granted and wait too late (see 1 John 1:6-10). You never know when your time is up, so why procrastinate? Hell and the lake of fire judgement await those that dont accept Christ. These are horrors beyond your comprehension. Dont wait on it!! As for the Faith vs proof part, check this out: John 20:29

Buuullllllony lol Sorry dude, but the devil does exist, it is not a conspiracy, and the Bible has been EXTREMELY consistent throughout the centuries. You cannot believe in God without acknowledging the existence of the devil. I dont care if this dude claimed to study the Bible for 50 years, if he is saying the devil does not exist, he is decieved...PERIOD, and so are you if you follow him.

if you aren't willing to research it for yourself you obviously won't find out. and yes, you can believe in God and not the existence of a devil.

i'm not gonna continue beating this topic to death, if you chose to look past a concept without doing any research than thats your loss. You can't say that unless you've read the book, which i'm positive you aren't going to do. because sadly what you have been taught has clouded your mind, as it had mine for many years, luckily it cleared enough to accept this concept and study it, finding out for myself.

and the Bible has changed and evolved hundreds and thousands of times, this is common knowledge and while we still don't know the entirety of what has been changed a large portion of the original writings have surfaced throughout the years, and when you look at the differences, it really puts religion in perspective on how there can be so many variations.

I was trying to stay out of the religious debate, but I just had to comment on that because...that's ridiculous. Never before have I heard a self-proclaimed Christian actually say the only reason you have for belief is so you don't have to worry about going to hell. Usually that's just something non-Christians say to criticize the religion. Or so I thought. Apparently I was wrong. x_X

I never said there wasnt other religions that can baptize or "seal" you after death. However its not biblical, and if you believe the bible it doesnt work. Its like this: You can stand on a railroad as a train approaches, close your eyes and try to make it go away. Out of sight, out of mind right? However, its still there, and its going to make you explode all over the place. My point is, you can try different things all you want, it doesnt mean they will work.

hell. Usually that's just something non-Christians say to criticize the religion. Or so I thought. Apparently I was wrong. x_X

Well, guess what? You didnt hear that from me either, and Im not self-proclaimed, I AM a Christian per Christ's words in the Bible. Your taking what I said out of context and running with it. Im NOT saying Christians are just Christians because they are afraid of satan and hell. Im saying, by removing his existence from the debate, the devil undermines much of the basis of Christianity (the fall of man, Jesus' sacrifice on the cross, the ENTIRE book of Revelation, etc.). In other words, there is no fall of man without the devil. Without the fall of man, where is the reason for Christ to die on the cross? What is the whole point of the future described in Revelation, if there is not satan and fallen world for Christ to establish a kingdom over? Removing the existence of the devil introduces MASSIVE doubt in God and in particular Jesus, such as "well if the devil doesnt exist, why should I listen to Christians and God's redemptive plan?" It is natural to get scared over the consequences of not being a Christian (exile to hell and the lake of fire judgement). Some will be driven by fear, and so long as their belief in Christ is genuine, they will be saved as promised in the Bible. And you know what?..thats just fine. Whatever gets them to Heaven, gets them there and thats what is important. However, this again was not my intended point ,and many others will come to Christ by a variety of other means.

If your worried, ask God about it, He will answer. If it doesnt feel right, then maybe that is already telling you something. It is definitely important to watch and be aware of what you let into your life. You wont lose your salvation over it, but it can open you up to unnecessary attacks from the enemy (satan and his not-so-merry band of losers lol).*
> -- -ArchAngeL-777-

Buh...so wait, we're supposed to just believe in God and Jesus because we're scared of Satan and hell? Not out of, you know, love and faith or anything like that?

I was trying to stay out of the religious debate, but I just had to comment on that because...that's ridiculous. Never before have I heard a self-proclaimed Christian actually say the only reason you have for belief is so you don't have to worry about going to hell. Usually that's just something non-Christians say to criticize the religion. Or so I thought. Apparently I was wrong. x_X

Well, guess what? You didnt hear that from me either, and Im not self-proclaimed, I AM a Christian per Christ's words in the Bible. Your taking what I said out of context and running with it. Im NOT saying Christians are just Christians because they are afraid of satan and hell. Im saying, by removing his existence from the debate, the devil undermines much of the basis of Christianity (the fall of man, Jesus' sacrifice on the cross, the ENTIRE book of Revelation, etc.). In other words, there is no fall of man without the devil. Without the fall of man, where is the reason for Christ to die on the cross? What is the whole point of the future described in Revelation, if there is not satan and fallen world for Christ to establish a kingdom over? Removing the existence of the devil introduces MASSIVE doubt in God and in particular Jesus, such as "well if the devil doesnt exist, why should I listen to Christians and God's redemptive plan?" It is natural to get scared over the consequences of not being a Christian (exile to hell and the lake of fire judgement). Some will be driven by fear, and so long as their belief in Christ is genuine, they will be saved as promised in the Bible. And you know what?..thats just fine. Whatever gets them to Heaven, gets them there and thats what is important. However, this again was not my intended point ,and many others will come to Christ by a variety of other means.
religious people are funny

so inocent and oblivious of what's really going on in the universe...

and there's no point arguing with them... it's like telling a 4 year old that santa claus doesn't exist :D

You can't say that unless you've read the book, which i'm positive you aren't going to do. because sadly what you have been taught has clouded your mind, as it had mine for many years, luckily it cleared enough to accept this concept and study it, finding out for myself.*
> and the Bible has changed and evolved hundreds and thousands of times, this is common knowledge and while we still don't know the entirety of what has been changed a large portion of the original writings have surfaced throughout the years, and when you look at the differences, it really puts religion in perspective on how there can be so many variations.

> -- americahellyeah

Well, I can assure you that I have done extensive research on the subject (particularly on Heaven and hell and what actually waits beyond). Not because I didnt believe in either, it just fascinates me to find out what is in store. That, of course, is independant of personal experiences I cant explain any other way. Mind you, I am a Software Engineer by trade and a highly logical individual, and there are just some things I have seen and heard that cannot be explained away...at least not without looking like a total idiot. Anyway, Im absolutely baffled as to how you can read, believe in God, and believe in the Bible yet somehow explain away the occurrences of the devil as fiction. I can understand some of your point of translation, because that has always been a debate through the years. But the fact is, the Bible tracks extremely well over the centuries and is has been highly preserved. An investigative journalist wrote an excellent book that touches on this: The Case for Christ by Lee Strobel. Check it out. Part of the book is devoted to specific analysis on the Bible's history, and in particular the authenticity of the Gospels.

haha... we both know there would be no point now would it?

in the end everyone will still believe what they originally believed and nothing will come out of it.

i lol'd hard at the TC original post though... and i know there's more people like him to make me laugh all my life :P

Any Christian gamers out there have any problems with this game? I still won't touch Diablo!

Lol. Look at it this way: If you go to hell for playing Persona 3, myself [along with pretty much every adult gamer] will be right along side you for playing GTA I through IV, Resident Evil, Jericho, Condemned I & II, soon-to-be-released Dead Space, etc, etc, etc. Feel better now?

What kind of christian are you? Orthodox, or just a regular guy?- I stopped following christianity (I live in Argentina where christianity is huge) when I realized that leading my life by old concepts was wrong. Yes, it has a good life manual, but Budhism and muslim also have good teachings, yet to mr Emperor (Ratzinger) they are wrong and should be eliminated. I cant follow a leader of a religion whose moto is "tolerance" being so anti-differences.

So, back to the topic, Persona 3 is not a satanist game, unless you are one of those who think that everything thats not I love jesus and sees Star Wars and The Lord of the Rings as Satans Spawn should be able to play it.

-- kenshinhimura16

Dude i am from Argentina too :D.

If you let a religion lead your life then its your fault. I believe in god i know what he wants from me, because i read the bible, not because some dude at a church says so.

Dejate llevar por la ensiansa de dios, no por la de los hombres.

Peace!

Persona 3 is probably a pretty good game, I'm just not sure I would like it since it has a lot of grinding in it and I get bored quick of that.

Being the only main release this week and such a huge fan base, I am tempted to check out this game. However, it is said to have occultic themes and there is a satanic pentagram on the cover. I don't want to open up room for demon influence in my apartment.

Killing is a sin...so what games do you play? lol

Actually Murder is the sin. It is ok to kill in self defense. Otherwise, God would have not helped the Israelites kick butt.

I do not think the Israelites "kick butt," the only reason the have their own country is because the UN felt bad for the Jewish population after the Holocaust and decided to give them a homeland surrounded by Islamic countries...

Actually it was the older version of the UN called the League of Nations gave Israel its feedom

Yeah like 90% of the gamers will be meeting down there if that was true lol, but seriously, as long as you stick to what you believe in, you will be fine . You won't go to Hell.
