What Gods should be in the next GoW?

I think ancient Persian gods and fables should be next. After all, Kratos is a Spartan and those two peoples have a pretty rich history of going to war with each other. It wouldn't be hard to segway Kratos having a blood feud with the gods of his mortal enemies.

A new protagonist that goes after Norse Gods.

Lol, all the same gods as greek gods but with a different name.

Though I would love to visit ancient Rome :D

Norse would be awesome. Giant scary wolf. Sea serpent that is longer than the earth. Trolls. Giants. Dwarves. Really awesome gods. The world tree. World is made from a friggin' giant.

It'd be awesome!

Marcus Fenix, COle train and Baird... and they should all kill eachother.... I figure we can kill both GoW's at the same time.

They should really teach ancient religions better at school! I meant no offense, just that this is such a common misconception and understaing how ancient religions worked would be very helpful to comprehend how christianity rose and how it differ from its predecessors.

Ether Egyptian, Roman, or Norse mythology. Seriously any of those three can make the next God Of War actually feel fresh this time. And also a better main character as well ;)

Norse or Egyptian.

David Jaffe's original vision for the series had Kratos taking down other pantheons and Gods like the Norse and Egyptian after the defeat of the Greek gods and titans.

SSM consist of 3 teams, the dev team that helps out with a variety of other projects within Sony, one GoW team that's been making something for ages with Cory Barlog back in the hot seat and one team that was making a new IP, now cancelled. Hardly in limbo.

Good point actually! Persians from 300 had a lot of weird and variation with their enemy types... that's a faction I never thought about.

got a weird subliminal thought of her doing one of those energetic swing around chain slices where it takes her the entire circumference of a 'phallic object' and slicing it off LOL. Also winced. Sort of like how in Dante's Inferno where you be-head the two side heads on the Glutton Hydra.
