Huh? At what point is this religious?

As far as I'm aware, Kojima, like most of Japan, is an atheist. He has no concern over religion.

All he does is post about Dante's Inferno, he has done it for years in the 360 boards where he makes weekly topics about DI and its religious imagery.

The game also praises the church of Kojima, neighbors to the church of Gaben, and the ruins of the church of Suda 51

-Memento Mori is a latin phrase that can be freely translated as 'remember you are mortal' 'remember you will die'.
-Cogito Ergo Sum, Je pense, donc je suis.

Except David is not biblical thanks to MGS1.

Well to me Big Boss, or the legend, becomes sort of worshipped like a cult or religion by his followers in a way. I remember in mgs4, when eva was giving you the low down about the patriots, she made parallels between big boss and jesus in a few scenes if I'm not mistaken.

Well, there is the part where you fulton Jesus, but he just jumps off Mother Base and walks back to Africa on the surface of the ocean.

Metal Gear Solid doesn't rewrite the Bible. David is kind of a big deal in the Old Testament. So is Eli.

Hop back in the short bus and head home, you've provided enough entertainment for one day.

The entire franchise contains references to Christianity, whether it's David and Goliath, or Paradise Lost.

But it's all thanks to Space Odyssey for the names lol, that's where it kind of sucks. I know David is a big deal. I think they got a bit lucky.

Although I would like to see a straight confirmation of the naming thanks to David and Goliath.

TC is a troll who's gimmick is to ask the same questions over and over and over even after getting a response or spamming the board with endless questions. He has been warned twice and still not banned for some reason.

There was going to be a tank in MG2 called "Goliath." In addition, read this: http://staggerd.com/8153/metal-gear-solid-pro-christianity

The whole "8 babies" thing was in MGS1.

But she still didn't appear in Metal Gear Solid V: The Phantom Pain unless you count her being mentioned.

And the apple in MGS4 (forbidden fruit).

Eva leads the Paradise Lost Army (Paradise Lost refers to Eden), which itself is an analog to Outer Heaven (which was lead by Snake; Satan took the form of a snake to tempt Eve).

Eva gives birth to two sons, one which kills the other (Cain and Abel).

Yes, Kaz tells you about a fantasy he has where Jesus Christ is jack hammering Mickey Mouse in the doo-doo hole with a lawn dart as Garth Brooks gives birth to something resembling a cheddar cheese log with almonds on Santa Clause's tummy-tum.
